Ladies, I want to speak to your men, both young and old alike this month. But before I do, let me make a request of you. Pray; pray for the men in your life, that they will assume the God ordained role He has designed for them. Too many men have set down and no longer serve God as He has determined. Pray that a revival of manly godliness will begin anew, in your home and in our church. Thank you.

Men here is an interesting blog from Tim Brown; we need to thoughtfully consider his words:

"Of the sons of Issachar, men who understood the times with knowledge of what Israel should do..." (1 Chron. 12:32)

This verse has such a powerful message, especially to men. It says these men understood the times they were living in and even more significant is that they had knowledge of what the nation of Israel should do. Are you a man like that? Have you become infected with the disease known as indifference or is your heart broken by what is going on in our homes, churches and communities? Do you stick your head in the sand hoping it will all go away?

Or are you purposefully making the effort to understand our times and then pursuing the knowledge of what to do? The knowledge is not on TV or in some self help book. It's not even found on the Internet! It only comes from pursuing an invisible being that provided us access to The Way and The Truth and Life.

It's said that true wisdom and knowledge is defined as viewing life from God's perspective. When you use Him and His Life as the grid that you run everything through then you will be like the "sons of Issachar, men who understood the times with the knowledge of what to do." So are you seeking understanding, wisdom and knowledge from the right source? Do you have men in your life that are consistently encouraging and empowering you to seek Him?

Here is a question to help you change the direction you might be headed in seeking understanding and knowledge. Ask yourself, "Based on my past experiences, current circumstances, future hopes and dreams, what is the wise thing for me to do?"

We need wise men! Can we count on you?

In the Bond of Christ's Service
 Bro. Keith
